“Truth and Behold” is a point and click adventure game in which you control Rose, a mechanic that was screwed over by the actions of a corrupt company. Now Rose has to sneak into the company’s headquarters and find evidence to convict the head of the company of illegal doings. Rose has to be careful and make sure she isn’t caught by guards that are patrolling the building. To do this Rose has to make sure that she only looks in places that will help her find the evidence she needs. She will meet others that will help her find what she needs to bring the criminals to justice.

How to Play

The object of the game is to guide Rose through the building and avoid getting caught by making sure her alertness bar does not fill up. You must find the four pieces of evidence that will get the CEO convicted.
