Phil 190P/290P: Husserl

Autumn 2005
Thurs., 6-9pm.

Professor: Abe Stone
abestone@ucsc.edu
Office: Cowell Annex A-106
Phone (office): 459-5723
Office hours: TBD.

Course Requirements

For undergrads (190P): Classroom participation. Two 2 page response/analysis papers (on a rotating basis, as I will explain in class). Final paper, 8–12 pages, due Thu., Dec. 8.

For graduate students (290P): Classroom participation. Graduate section, time TBD. There will be short additional readings for the graduate section. Final paper, approximately 20 pages (shorter is OK within reason, assuming the content is satisfactory, but not much longer, please).

Texts

Note: the existing English translation of the Logical Investigations, by J.N. Findlay, is of the second edition. For the sections we will be reading, I have corrected that translation back to the first edition (and made a few other changes). The result will be available on e-reserve and/or as handouts in class.

The Ideas should be available at the Literary Guillotine. I recommend using that translation, just so we will all be looking at the same text.

Of course if you read German you should use the original texts (see me about getting them).
